Statement of intent

Bilbrook CE Middle recognises the importance of offering a broad and balanced curriculum that is accessible to all which is underpinned by our shared school vision. Our curriculum consists of activities designed to promote the intellectual, personal, social, physical and cultural development of pupils. Our curriculum celebrates the diverse nature of society, enabling pupils to embrace the world around them – encouraging adherence with the fundamental British values. It includes the formal programme of lessons, based on the national curriculum, and the informal programme of extra-curricular activities that we organise to enrich pupils' experiences of their lives and education.

Through this policy, the school aims to:

- Put pupils at the centre of all curriculum decisions, putting their needs above that of the school;
- have a curriculum that is fit for purpose, offering differentiation and personalization;
- prepare all pupils for the next stage of their education and for life in modern society;
- first achieve and then exceed national standards in achievement, attainment and progression;
- be committed to excellence and continuous improvement;
- provide courses which meet the needs of pupils;
- nurture the talents of all and celebrate success;
- work with feeder schools to ease transition; and
- involve the stakeholders, including parents, in curriculum development.

1. Curriculum intent

What the curriculum is designed to do:

Our curriculum is designed with pupils' learning and development at the heart of all that we do. We recognise that a curriculum has to be broad, balanced and offer pupils opportunities to grow as individuals as well as learners and provide them with the skills necessary to succeed in life after school. Through a combination of learning techniques, we aim to ensure pupils enjoy learning and feel prepared for life after school. We also intend to offer pupils new and exciting experiences through extra-curricular activities that are designed to build resilience, confidence and self-esteem.

How we intend to deliver the curriculum:

Below, we have outlined how we intend to deliver the curriculum through a variety of methods that are both classroom-based and extra-curricular.

- Classroom-based learning: we encourage teachers to focus on learning intentions and the depth that is required over an academic year (39 weeks) rather than a term-by-term approach. There is a focus on interleaving areas of the curriculum. Interleaving is a learning strategy that involves switching between topics and ideas, which has been shown to improve long-term learning relative to blocking study of the same idea or topic. Research by Hermann Ebbinghaus noted that we 'lose' information as time goes on. His research of 1885 showed that we all forget at broadly similar rates over time. Therefore, the curriculum has been designed so that there is spaced repetition as it was concluded by Ebbinghaus that our memory is strengthened if we wait and then repeat. Retrieval practice is used at the start of every lesson so that children retrieve pieces of information from the previous lesson, last week's lesson and last term's lesson. One-to-one teaching and small group sessions are carried out for pupils who require additional support.

- Extra-curricular activities: we provide a variety of extra-curricular activities for pupils that enhance their learning experience, form personal connections with their peers, and teach skills essential for life after school. The activities we offer can be found in section 12.

A full list of subjects available to pupils in each year can be found in section 6.

How we involve stakeholders in curriculum planning and delivery

Our school values the input of its pupils, parents and the local community with regards to the planning and delivery of the curriculum. We believe pupils receive a well-rounded education if everyone is involved in shaping it. This is why we send pupils and parents questionnaires regularly.

We engage with the wider community by ensuring there are opportunities for pupils to participate in community projects and embed each project within the curriculum into the relevant subjects.

How the curriculum benefits pupils' learning and personal development

Our curriculum has been designed for a range of learners, providing equal opportunities for all – by doing this, pupils will benefit in the ways outlined in 2.2.

2. Curriculum aims

2.1. The overall aims of the curriculum are to:

- Allow children to let their light shine in all that they do;
- enable all pupils to be successful learners and achieve high standards;

- enable pupils to develop and be able to use high-quality functional skills, including key literacy, numeracy and ICT skills;
- enable pupils to develop their own personal interests and develop a positive attitude towards learning, so that they enjoy coming to school and acquire a solid basis for lifelong learning;
- enable pupils to value their learning outside of the curriculum and relate this knowledge to the taught curriculum;
- teach pupils to be able to discern right from wrong, that actions have consequences, and the value and importance of forgiveness;
